The 7-Day Standards Reset.

Seven days of simple training, nutrition and accountability standards, built for real life and real schedules. Stop starting over. Start keeping promises to yourself.

Certified Personal Trainer · Certified Nutritionist EVERY REP. EVERY CHOICE. REFORMED.

A NOTE BEFORE YOU START

Welcome.

Let's reset.

I'm Priscilla: certified personal trainer, certified nutritionist, Army officer and mom. I know what it's like to be pulled in every direction and to put yourself last.

This isn't a challenge, a cleanse or a crash plan. It's seven days of standards: small, specific promises you keep to yourself in how you train, how you fuel, and how you think.

By Day 7 you won't be a different person. You'll be someone who keeps their word to themselves, and that's where everything changes.

– Priscilla

How to use this guide

- 1 Set your standards first. Turn the page and write your why and your three standards.
- 2 One page a day. Each day has one session to train, one fuel standard and one mindset task.
- 3 Bad day? Do the minimum. A kept minimum is a kept standard. Never zero.
- 4 Track and review. Check off each day on the tracker, then review on Day 7.

YOU'LL NEED

A pair of dumbbells or a kettlebell (a backpack or water jugs work), a mat, and 20–40 minutes a day.

BEFORE DAY 1

Set your standard.

A goal is where you want to go. A standard is the floor you refuse to go below, even on your worst day. Goals inspire you. Standards carry you.

MY WHY: WHO I'M BECOMING

Train

How often you move and train each week.

e.g., 4 sessions + a daily walk

MY STANDARD

Fuel

How you feed your body, without extremes.

e.g., protein at every meal

MY STANDARD

Mindset

How you think, rest and hold yourself accountable.

e.g., a set sleep window

MY STANDARD

The Minimum Standard Rule

On your worst day (no sleep, sick kid, long shift), what's the least you'll still do? That's your real standard. Make it so small you can't say no, and never go to zero.

MY WORST-DAY MINIMUM

DAY 01 · DECIDE

Set Your Standard

Today isn't about a hard workout. It's about a decision: who you're becoming, and the standard that person keeps.

TRAIN

The Day-One Session

3 rounds · 40 seconds work / 20 seconds rest · about 20 minutes

1. Goblet squat
2. Dumbbell Romanian deadlift
3. Incline push-up
4. One-arm dumbbell row
5. Dead bug

Leave 2 reps in the tank. We build, we don't break. Note your weights: you'll repeat this on Day 7.

FUEL

Protein at breakfast

Start with a palm to a palm-and-a-half of protein: eggs, Greek yogurt, cottage cheese, or a protein shake alongside your usual breakfast.

MINDSET

Write it down

Fill in page 3: your why, your three standards, and your worst-day minimum. Written standards are kept standards.

YOUR MINIMUM A 10-minute walk and protein at one meal.

NOTES

DAY 02 · MOVE

Build the Habit

Habits are built on repetition, not intensity. Today you keep the promise and keep it light. Showing up is the workout.

TRAIN

Walk + Mobility

25-minute brisk walk, then 5 minutes of mobility

1. Cat-cow × 10
2. World's greatest stretch × 5/side
3. Deep squat hold, 60 sec
4. Child's pose breathing, 60 sec

Brisk means you can talk, but you'd rather not sing.

FUEL

Water before coffee

Drink a full glass of water before your first coffee, and have water with every meal today. Keep a bottle where you can see it.

MINDSET

Put it on the calendar

Schedule your next three workouts with a day, time and place, like a meeting you'd never cancel. You are the client.

YOUR MINIMUM A 10-minute walk and one glass of water before coffee.

NOTES

DAY 03 · BUILD

Strength Is the Foundation

You don't need to "tone." You need to build. Strength makes everything else easier, from carrying groceries to carrying a hard season.

TRAIN

Lower-Body Strength

3 sets of 10–12 · rest 60–90 seconds between sets

1. Goblet squat
2. Glute bridge or hip thrust
3. Split squat, 10/side
4. Dumbbell Romanian deadlift
5. Farmer's carry, 3 × 40 yards

Pick a weight where the last 2 reps are hard but clean.

FUEL

Build-a-Plate

At lunch and dinner: a palm of protein, half a plate of produce, a cupped hand of smart carbs, a thumb of fat, and flavor you enjoy.

MINDSET

Test your minimum

Look at the worst-day minimum you wrote on page 3. Is it small enough to keep on your hardest day? If not, shrink it.

YOUR MINIMUM

10 minutes: squats, lunges, push-ups, glute bridges, plank. No equipment.

NOTES

DAY 04 · FUEL

Eat Like You Matter

You don't have to earn your food, and you don't have to burn it off. Today is about planning meals that fuel the life you want.

TRAIN

The Bad-Day Workout

10-minute EMOM, done twice (start each move at the top of the minute)

Min 1: 12 bodyweight squats

Min 4: 15 glute bridges

Min 2: 10 reverse lunges

Min 5: 30-second plank

Min 3: 8 push-ups

Rest for whatever's left of each minute. Proof that 20 minutes is enough.

FUEL

Plan three days

Write out breakfast, lunch and dinner for the next three days, each anchored by protein. Make one grocery list and shop once.

MINDSET

Rewrite one thought

Catch one "I have to earn this" or "I need to burn that off" thought today.

Rewrite it: "I eat to fuel the life I want."

YOUR MINIMUM One round of the EMOM and one planned, protein-anchored meal.

NOTES

DAY 05 · PUSH

Strong Back, Strong Word

Upper-body strength for better posture and everyday power, plus the step most people skip: letting someone hold you to your word.

TRAIN

Upper-Body Supersets

Do each pair back to back · 3 rounds · rest 60–90 seconds after each pair

A1. Dumbbell floor or bench press × 10 A2. One-arm row × 10/side

B1. Shoulder press × 10 B2. Band pull-apart × 15

C1. Biceps curl × 12 C2. Triceps extension × 12

Pairing a push with a pull saves time and balances your posture.

FUEL

Protein at every meal

Breakfast, lunch and dinner all start with protein today. Use your plan from Day 4.

MINDSET

Say it out loud

Tell one person your standard: a friend, a partner, your coach. Ask them to check on you on Day 7. Accountability changes everything.

YOUR MINIMUM 20 push-ups (any variation), spread through the day.

DONE TODAY ☐ Train ☐ Fuel ☐ Mindset ☐ Minimum only

NOTES

DAY 06 · RECOVER

Rest Is Part of the Program

You don't get stronger in the workout. You get stronger when you recover from it. Today's standard is to recover on purpose.

TRAIN

Mobility Flow + Easy Walk

2 rounds, slow and easy, then a relaxed 20-minute walk

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1. Cat-cow × 10 | 4. Thoracic open books × 8/side |
| 2. World's greatest stretch × 5/side | 5. Deep squat hold, 60 sec |
| 3. 90/90 hip switches × 10 | 6. Child's pose breathing, 60 sec |

Move like you're taking care of your body, not testing it.

FUEL

Rest days count too

Keep protein at every meal and keep your water up. Recovery runs on fuel, so don't under-eat on rest days.

MINDSET

Protect your sleep

Set a sleep window tonight: screens off 30 minutes before bed and the same wake time tomorrow. Sleep is training too.

YOUR MINIMUM 5 minutes of stretching or slow breathing before bed.

NOTES

DAY 07 · REFORM

Review and Rise

Seven days ago you made a decision. Today you see what keeping it did, and you set the standard for next week.

TRAIN

Repeat the Day-One Session

Same five moves, 3 rounds, 40/20. Compare with Day 1: did the weight feel lighter, your form feel steadier, your breathing come easier?

FUEL

Set up next week

Shop, prep two proteins, and set up one grab-and-go breakfast so Monday-you starts ready.

MINDSET

The weekly review

What standard did I keep?

What got in the way, and how will I plan for it?

My standard for next week:

YOUR MINIMUM Answer the three review questions. That alone resets your week.

DONE TODAY ☐ Train ☐ Fuel ☐ Mindset ☐ Minimum only

YOUR WEEK AT A GLANCE

The Tracker

Check a box for every standard you keep. A kept minimum counts. The goal isn't a perfect row. It's no empty days.
